"Although the present theatrical season has been a dismal failure in spots, few of the stars have failed to get their share of the coin," said Mr. C. P. Greneker, of Philadelphia, at Murphy's, Mr. Greneker was formerly in the newspaper business in South Carolina, afterward serving on the staff of the Pittsburg Dispatch for several years. "The refusal of the railroad companies to handle companies on block rates, forced many of the weaker organizations to disband, thus leaving the cream of the business to the more pretentious ones," he declared, Ordinarily, the impression might have spread that the South was a regular theatrical graveyard, but conditions in this section were not different from conditions in the West. As I am in that business now, I have found that the public are not averse to paying for a clever production, and after all it may be possible to say that much good has resulted from the temporary troubles of the few."

Mr. George Calloway Hall, of Ralelich, N. C. was at Murphy's yesterday "You can't hear anything down m way these days," he said, "but prohibition talk. The temperance force are making a big fight to dethrone thrum demon, with chances largely I their favor. In my town the dispossary was voted out in December, an the police have practically suppresse the blind tiger trade. Occasionally however, it is possible to see a drunk en man on the streets, even when yo are not seeing double."
